

The New York Times

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 12, 2020

Opening

El Paso Restaurante

The chef and restaurateur Rodrigo Abrajan had a taco truck, then a restaurant with this name in East Harlem for more than 30 years. Now he has moved the restaurant west and reopened it with a garden, sidewalk seating and a new partner, Victor Medina. The menu features ceviches, tacos, classics like chiles en nogada, and family-style boards loaded with various meats, accompaniments, sauces and tortillas. Reservations are available for parties of six or more, with socially distanced seating.

123 East 110th Street, 646-590-8640, elpasonyc.com.